

biographical information

Stacey Saunders
Vice President and General Counsel
Chevron New Energies

Stacey Saunders is vice president and general counsel for Chevron New Energies since October 2021. In this role, she manages the team of legal counsel for Chevron New Energies and Chevron Technology Ventures.

Prior to her current role, Stacey served as managing counsel for Chevron North America Exploration and Production (CNAEP), leading law teams for the Mid-Continent and Rockies business units.

Saunders joined Chevron in 2000 and brings extensive experience as managing counsel for CNAEP headquarters, San Joaquin Valley, and Appalachian/Michigan business units, as well supervising and lead counsel for the Deepwater Exploration & Projects business unit, senior counsel for the Mid-Continent business unit, and U.S. Upstream Litigation and Royalty Counsel at Chevron and Texaco. She was a private litigation attorney before joining the company.

Stacey earned a Juris Doctor from the University of Texas at Austin School of Law and a Bachelor of Science in International Economics, Magna Cum Laude, from Texas Tech University.

03/23