

video transcript

laser cutting

human energy®

Chevron has invested in and deployed high-power laser-cutting for use in our oil and gas operations. The technology cuts with pinpoint accuracy and precision. When wells are done producing, the technology improves the well abandonment process by lowering costs, decreasing turnaround time, and reducing safety risks. We use the technology for both onshore and offshore well abandonment.